COMMENT IN BERLIN ON RAID OF THE U-53

Tageszeitung Says It Will Place a New Light on Idea of Conflict With U. S.
AMSTERDAM, Oct. 10 (via London).—A Berlin despatch quotes the Deutsche Tageszeitung as saying it considers the significance of the U-53's visit to America to be that it has proved German submarines are able to conduct successful cruiser warfare in the vicinity of the American coast. The newspaper believes German operations in those waters will place in a new light the idea of a conflict with Germany, which sometimes even leading personalities in America have mentioned threateningly.

GIRL STRANGLED TO DEATH IN CELLAR WITH BOOKSTRAP

Eleven-Year-Old Tillie Brecker's Body Found After All-Night Search.

POLICE QUIZ TWO MEN.

One Interrogated Over Little Victim's Body—Wide Hunt for Clues.

Hour after hour to-day in the Detective Bureau at Police Headquarters, two Italian fruit dealers whose storage room is in the cellar of the house wherein eleven-year-old Tillie Brecker was found strangled to death with a leather strap after an attack had been made upon her, were questioned with all the skill the police could bring to bear.

The result of this questioning, up to a late hour this afternoon, failed to bring any light upon the tragedy in the basement of the tenement at No. 184 Monroe Street.

One of the Italians said he had been in the cellar at 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but not later. Both said they knew nothing of the murder of the little girl.

A thorough examination of the place in which the girl's body was found, which also contained a sleeping place, was made this afternoon by Dr. Otto Klein and Dr. Pacini of the Central Twining Laboratory, which always aids the Police Department in murder cases.

The book strap, which had been used to strangle the girl, was pulled so tightly that it was at first thought that it had broken under the tension. Examination showed it had been cut partly through with a knife.

The severed end of the strap was found under a grating in the front area of the building, beside the stairs leading to the sidewalk.

JANITOR'S CRIES BRING NEIGHBORS TO SCENE.

Morris Silverstein, janitor of the tenement, who found the body, could not identify it. His cries brought a group of neighbors, including the girl's mother, to the scene.

Her identity was not known until Barney Brecker, a barrel dealer, arrived and said that she was his wife and the dead girl their daughter. They lived at No. 2 Ridge Street.

Ambassador Gerard and His Wife As They Looked on Arrival To-Day

MR. AND MRS. GERARD ON ARRIVAL.

EMPEROR WILLIAM PRAYS THAT PEACE MAY SOON ARRIVE

In Greeting King of Wurttemberg He Hopes That Its Blessings Repay Sacrifices.

The hope of King William of Wurttemberg for "a speedy and honorable peace" is expressed in a telegram from the King to the German Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, as quoted in a Reuters despatch from Amsterdam. The King's message, sent in response to the Chancellor's congratulations, is quoted as follows:

"May God give a speedy and honorable peace which will guarantee us further progress. May He guide Your Excellency, in whose wise leadership I firmly trust."

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The following message of congratulation from Emperor William to the King of Wurttemberg on the occasion of the latter's twenty-fifth anniversary of the throne is forwarded in an exchange telegraph despatch from Amsterdam, as follows:

"May Your Majesty before long bring to your people the blessings of peace, and may that peace repay all German princes and subjects for the heavy sacrifices they have made for the Fatherland."

LONDON ASKS U. S. TO WARN U-BOATS SAME AS BRITISH

Protest Against Patrol of Cruisers Off Coast Here Recalled by Newspapers.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The evening newspapers of London, in commenting on the activities of the U-53, refer to the request made by the United States of Great Britain early in the year to recall British cruisers from trade lanes, approximate to American waters and American ports, and contend the United States cannot permit belligerent submarines to operate in these same waters. The Westminster Gazette says:

"We have ample confidence in our navy's ability to deal with the submarine menace, but we are entitled to expect that the consideration we have shown to neutrals in the exercise of our sea power shall not be audaciously turned to our disadvantage."

LANSING AND GERARD HOLD A CONFERENCE

Secretary of State Sees Ambassador Before His Visit to President's Home.

Prior to the departure this afternoon of Secretary of State Lansing for Long Branch to see President Wilson, Mr. Lansing and James W. Gerard, Ambassador to Germany, had a conference with Col. E. M. House, President Wilson's close friend and adviser.

GERARD WELCOMED BACK HOME BY CITY; HAS NO PEACE PLAN

Ambassador to Warn Wilson of Peril in Resumption of U-Boat Warfare.

HIS DIPLOMACY LAUDED.

Speakers at Reception Praise Tact and Wisdom in Dealing With Germany.

James W. Gerard, Ambassador of the United States to Germany, with Mrs. Gerard, on his first visit home since the European war multiplied the volume and responsibilities of his duties more than two years ago, arrived on the Frederick Vill of the Scandinavian-American line to-day. On the matter of his mission to this country, other than that it was for a brief rest, the Ambassador smilingly refused to comment himself. He read the estimate of the diplomatic situation between the United States and Germany regarding the resumption of "ruthless" U-boat warfare, sent by wireless to The World by its staff correspondent, who was the Ambassador's close associate in Berlin for two months and his ship companion. His only remark was that, inasmuch as the article did not quote him, he could not be expected to comment on it.

"An Ambassador," he said, with a grave smile, "is, of course, never quoted."

By his manner, however, he conveyed to the reporters and the distinguished citizens who had gone down the bay to meet him the feeling that the article correctly estimated his mission.

TWENTY-FIVE OF COMMITTEE GREET ENVOY.

Of the Committee of One Hundred appointed to welcome the Ambassador to the city only about twenty-five went down the bay in the police steamer Patrol, which left the Battery at 7 o'clock. The stiff chill wind made those who did go down uncomfortable in body and nervous in mind because of the constant peril to their high hats.

Chairman Oscar S. Straus, bearing a great sheaf of American Beauty roses, headed the down the bay sub-committee. Other members were Henry Morgenthau, Carl L. Schurz, former Street Cleaning Commissioner William H. Edwards, Dock Commissioner Robert E. Wagner, William Kiehl, Charles H. Alexander, William M. Seabury, Frederick J. Middlebrook, Prof. Samuel McK. Lindsay, President of the Board of Aldermen Robert E. Dowling, Dr. Willy Meyer, Howard Taylor, Carl W. Neuboff, and Assistant United States Treasurer Martin Vogel. The presence among the early rising committee of a notable proportion of men of German descent and sympathies was remarked upon in view of concerted propagandist efforts to dissuade such persons from joining the welcome.

With the Patrol the Neutrality, the launch of the Collector of the Port, went down to Quarantine bearing the Ambassador's brothers, Sumner and Julian, as its guests of Collector Dudley Field Malone. These three were the first to board the Frederick VIII.

FIRST AMERICAN BEAUTIES IN THREE YEARS.

Mr. Gerard appeared at the rail of the promenade deck and exchanged intimate greetings with members of the committee while a gang plank was rigged from a lower part of the steamship. The committee went aboard and found Mrs. Gerard, looking very youthful and pretty in a

TWO SCARES IN ONE DAY BY UNDERSEA BOATS FOR GREEK STEAMER PATRIS

Halted at Six o'Clock Yesterday Morning in Vicinity of Nantucket—Sees Submarine in the Afternoon Near Port of New York.

FRENCH AND BRITISH SHIPS NEAR BIG RAIDER

The Greek steamship Patris, in to-day from the Piraeus, brought a thrilling tale of two encounters with submarines—the second one only sixty miles east of Sandy Hook. Whether she met two submarines or one submarine twice is not clear.

The ship had 146 cabin passengers and 583 in the steerage, besides a cargo of oils, wines and tobacco.

Capt. D. Kairis and First Officer Barbetas were on the bridge when the first scare occurred. At 6 A. M. yesterday the booming of three cannon shot across her bows brought up the ship with a round turn. As she slowed, the beam of a searchlight fell on her. Instantly the skipper broke out his signal flags telling her name, her nationality and her port of destination.

The officers were able to make out very dimly the form of a submarine some four hundred yards off the starboard bow. They could not tell how many men were up on the conning tower. After a minute inspection the submarine shot off her searchlight and submerged.

Very few passengers were awake at the time. The ship was 230 miles east of Sandy Hook in the vicinity of Nantucket. Capt. Kairis believes it must have been the U-53 of the German navy.

The second visitation was at 4 o'clock P. M. when the steamship was only sixty miles east of Sandy Hook. A submarine was discovered on the starboard beam of the Patris. Three officers were on top of her tower. She did not fire a gun or hail the steamship; but at sight of her many of the passengers were afraid and began to look for life-preservers.

Capt. Kairis told the people that Greece was at peace with Germany and that there was nothing to fear. He ordered his string of signal flags bent on the hulls. In a few seconds the undersea boat took a dive into the sea.

"There really was nothing like a panic," said Mrs. Addie R. Stone, who is returning to America after seven years spent in Greece. "The people were reassured at once when the Captain told us there was no danger of being sunk. I did not even go up on deck to see the submarine."

No one on the Patris was quite sure whether the officers of the submarine wore German uniforms or not.

FRENCH LINER WAS READY TO FIGHT WITH RAIDING SUBMARINE

The French liner Espagne came into port to-day with an exciting story of her experience Sunday night and Monday when lifeboats were swung out and all precautions taken for an encounter with the German submarine raider.

First word reached the Espagne Sunday by wireless that the German raider was at work in nearby waters. Only the officers of the ship were then aware of the danger, though the precautionary measures soon gave the
